NVSL's 40th Annual Wally Martin 3-Meter Dive Meet Held Under Sunny Skies

On Sunday, July 15, 2007, the Northern Virginia Swim League-Diving held the 40th Annual Wally Martin 3-Meter Dive Meet. This meet is the only 3-meter competition of the NVSL-Season and has a rich tradition of encouraging divers to test their skills from the "high dive." More than 100 divers, ages 9 to 18, competed in the annual championship. Divers represented 31 of the league's 43 pools.

Past champions of the Wally Martin Meet include U.S. Olympian and the University of Texas Dive Coach, Matt Scoggins (Great Falls), 1996 Olympic Trials Qualifier Kristin Link (Parliament), and 2004 Olympic Trials Qualifiers Mary Yarrison (Springfield) and Andrew Bradley (Sideburn Run), and numerous collegiate divers from Northern Virginia.

Wally Martin was the dive coach at Tuckahoe, where he also raised a family. Wally was one of the leaders who brought diving to the Northern Virginia Swimming League (NVSL) in 1961. The NVSL originated in 1955 and included only swimming. Through the efforts of Wally Martin, diving was introduced and has since evolved to the level of participation we know today.

The meet was held at Tuckahoe in McLean, Virginia.
